Bibliography of British and Irish History (BBIH)

The product of a partnership between the Society, the Institute of Historical Research, and the publisher Brepols.

Features of the Bibliography:

- a database approaching 560,000 records, by far the most complete online bibliographical resource on British and Irish history, including relations with the empire and Commonwealth;
- an essential resource for those drawing up bibliographies in British and Irish history for any purpose from writing undergraduate essays to preparation of course syllabi and advanced research;
- includes books, articles in journals, articles in collective volumes, and review articles;
- covers British and Irish history from the earliest periods for which written evidence survives to the present;
- near-comprehensive coverage of works published since 1900, and select earlier works;
- updated three times a year, with at least 10,000 records added per annum;
- searching by author, title, and date of publication for all records;

- use of standardised hierarchical subject and place indexes for post-1992 publications;
- cross-searchability with Oxford Dictionary of National Biography and National Register of Archives;
- links to library catalogues, Google Books, selected on-line book reviews, and full text versions of articles;
- new features include enhanced searching speeds, greater visibility for the subject and place hierarchies, an auto-complete function, an auto record count per search field, a multilingual interface, and extended export possibilities (including Refworks and Endote)

The service may be trialled. Librarians may request a 30-day free trial by contacting Brepols Publishers: Brepols Publishers, Begijnhof 67, B-2300 Turnhout, Belgium.
